ONCOLOGY MASSAGE: Medical Massage for the Oncology Patient

Learning about massage therapy and Oncology medicine takes more than just researching this topic on the internet. It takes years of practical experience, as well as conducting investigative research about Oncology Medicine and working first hand in a clinical setting with leading Oncologists and Hematologists. That is what you will learn from Dr. Cullers. He spent 6 1/2 years in an Oncology/Hematology clinical setting and has invested hundreds of hours performing investigative research about massage therapy and the Oncology patient. In this interactive and challenging course, Dr. Cullers discusses the important facts of understanding the many facets of Oncology Massage. Using the “who, what, when, why, how” teaching model, Dr. Cullers will share the many facets pertaining to this topic. Who uses Oncology Massage, what is Oncology Massage, what is cancer, the various effects of cancer treatments, when massage therapy should and should not be performed, the concept and application of Oncology/LDM, common medications related to cancer treatments. Additionally, you will learn the importance of understanding how to use the “decision tree model” in developing a safe and effective Oncology Massage care plan, as well as the importance of effective communication with the client/patient and physicians.

Dr. Jeff Cullers will also discuss the indications and contraindications of Oncology/LDM, the anatomy and physiology of the lymphatic system, the history and theory of Lymphatic Drainage Massage (LDM) known as the Vodder technique, (developed by E. Vodder Ph.D.), and the techniques and applications of Lymphatic Drainage Massage (LDM) as it applies to the oncology patient.
